

For more than 50 years, Res has been designing and manufacturing doors and systems with the aim of bringing the Made in Italy style of furniture to the world. Every work, project and realization is a source of inspiration. This is one of the mantras on which the culture of Res is based, where products from the collections and customised items come together in different layouts.

The idea, from which architects and designers worldwide start, evolves from the awareness of design knowledge and vision, which then allows them to create environments and living spaces with a strong aesthetic and formal impact.

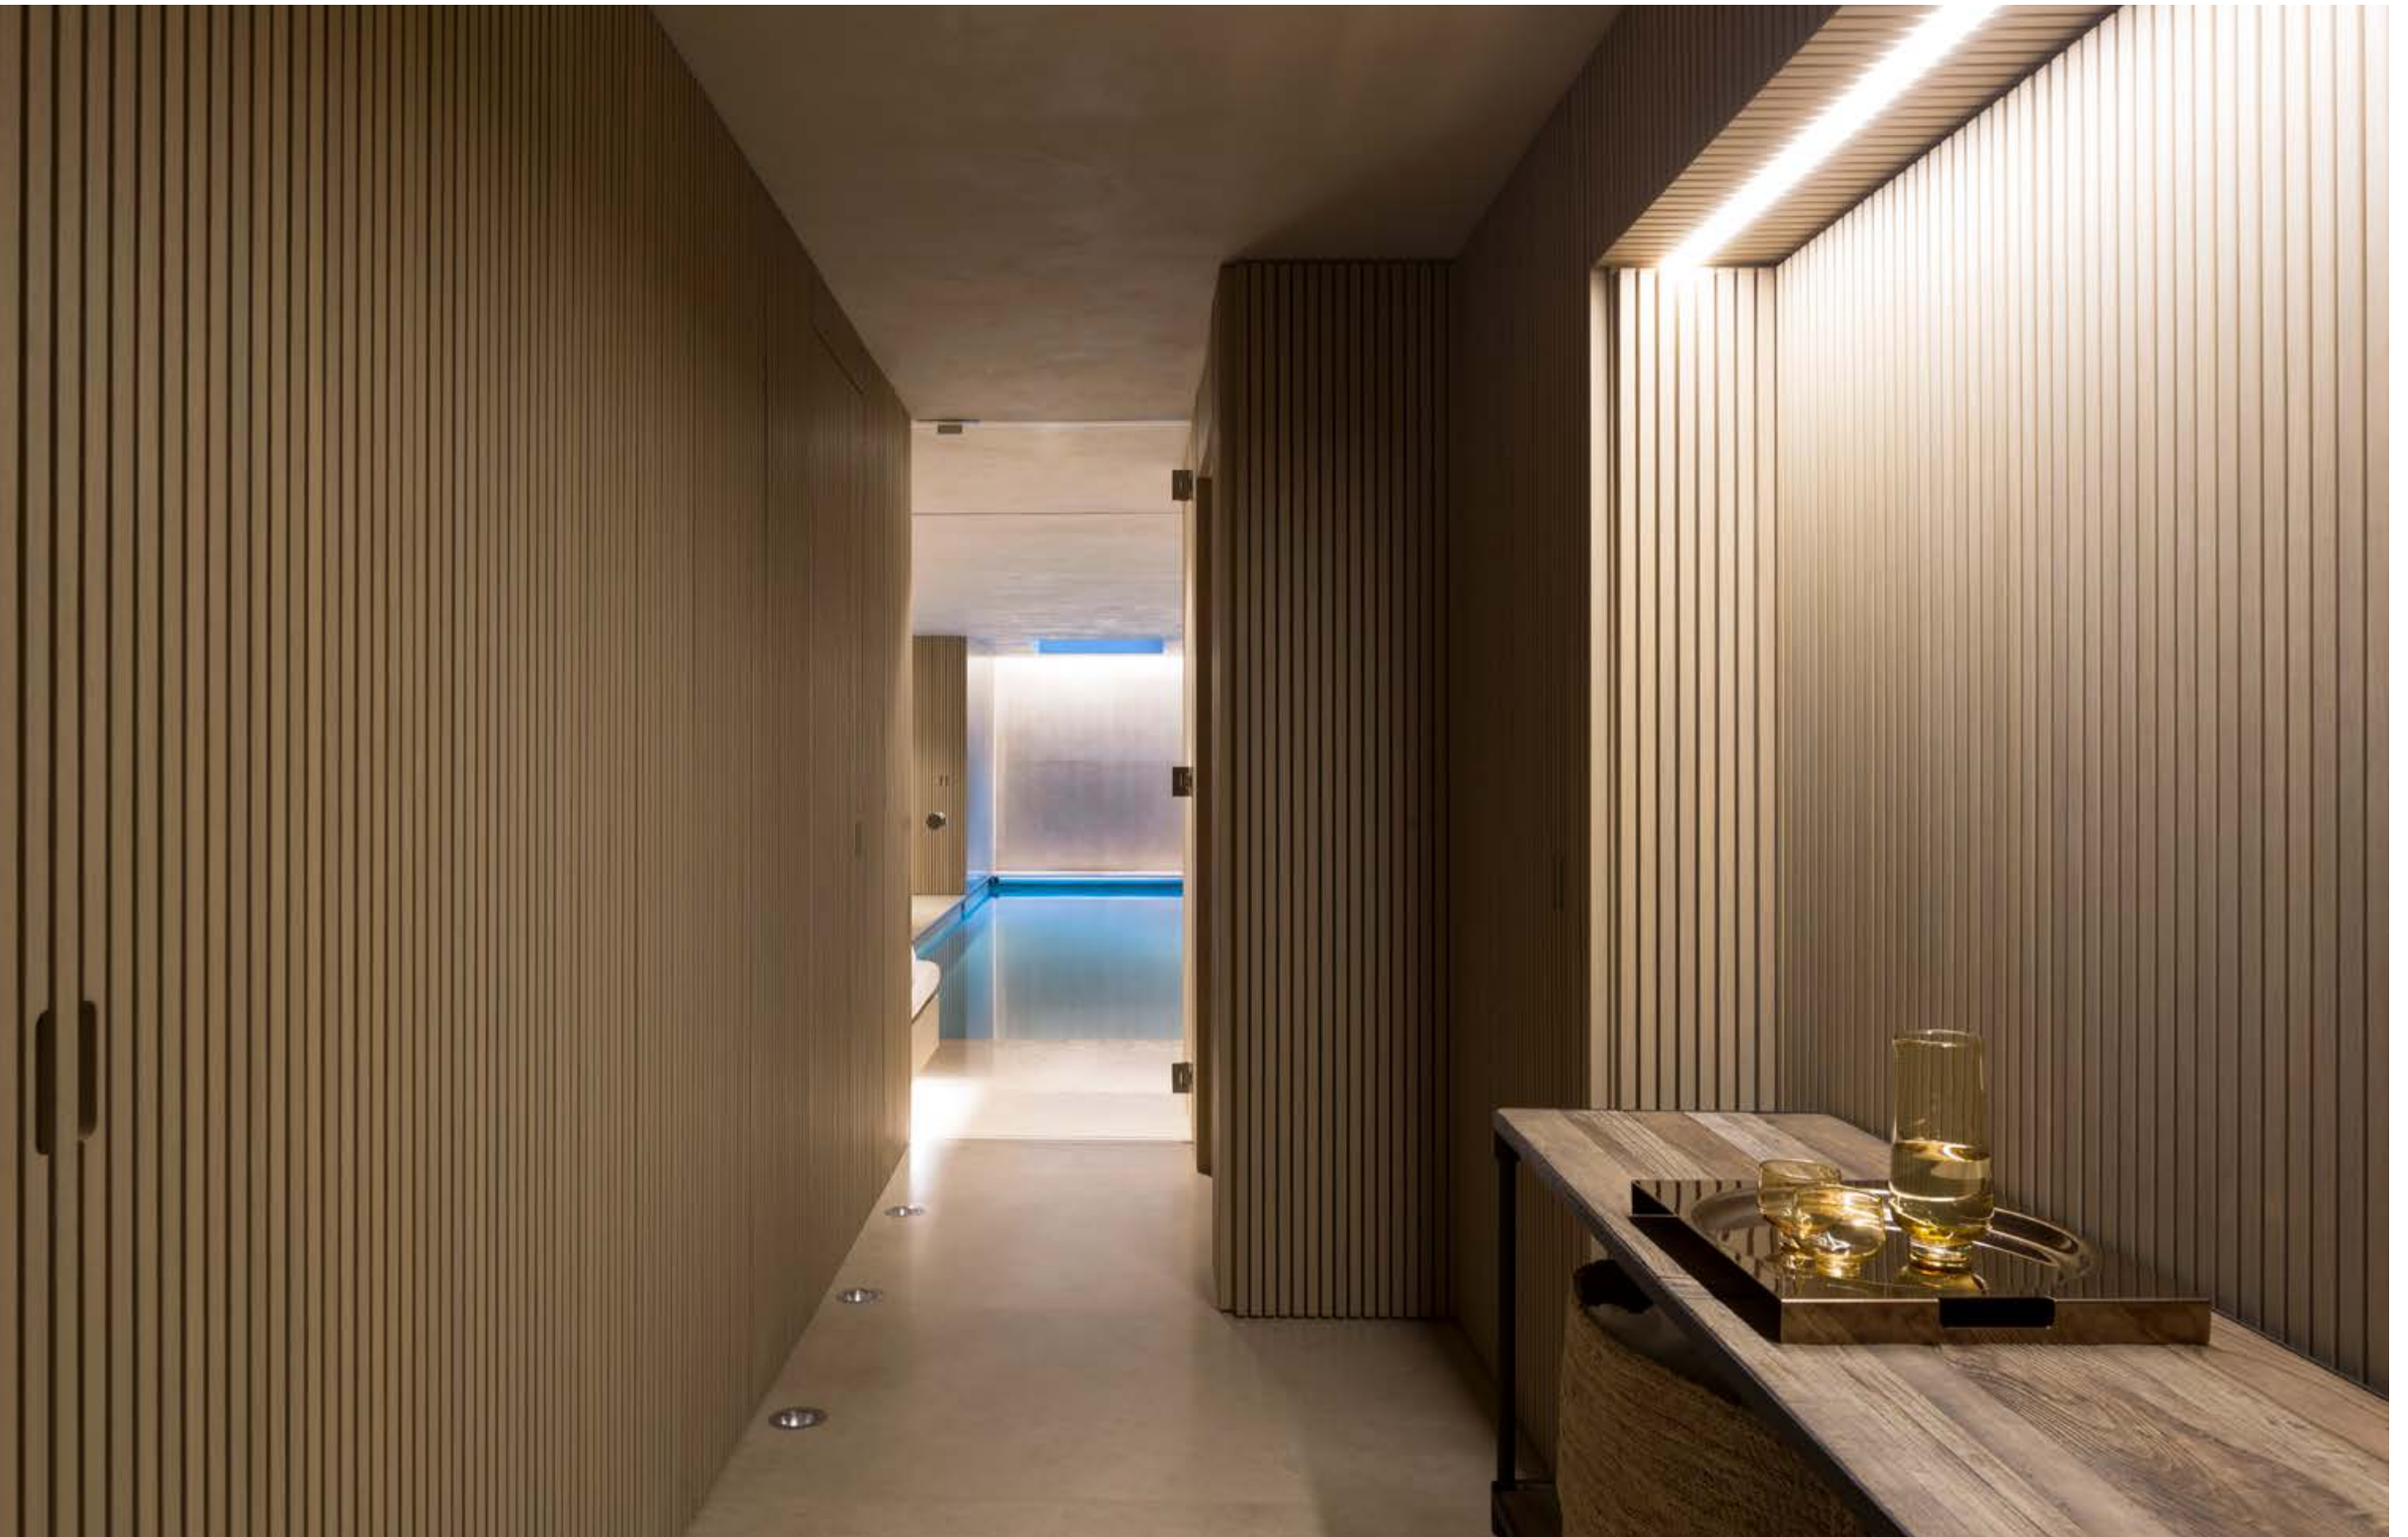

This creative energy is translated into furnishing elements, sometimes reinterpreted, which blend together in individual and tailor-made projects, thanks to the company's expertise in portraying the imagination and taste of those who design the spaces. In this way, the designer's ability to enhance shapes and materials emerges, which together give life to a unique and refined harmony, capable of blending itself into any environment.
